AARP Applauds Alexander

Gale Alexander, candidate for State Representative in the 67th district, drew the only spontaneous applause of the afternoon as he touted his S.T.O.P plan for municipal tax reform to a room full of senior citizens at the local AARP candidate forum. Asked why Connecticut is rated among the worst states in which to retire, Alexander noted the crushing tax burden that seniors face in their retirement years. He declared that under his plan seniors would enjoy tax relief and not find themselves being taxed out of homes they have owned for thirty or forty years. Alexander also noted that his plan promotes farmland preservation and gives middle class tax relief.
